

NJ MAKERS DAY 2019

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

On Saturday, March 23, 2019 makers from across New Jersey will be participating in the 5th annual NJ Makers Day to celebrate and share maker culture. The Oradell Free Public Library consistently has one of the largest events in the state.

Creative minds of all ages are invited to join us for a special daylong event devoted to hands-on learning. All activities are free of charge and the event is open to the public.

Currently, we are in the process of recruiting volunteers to lead programs. Opportunities include sharing a skill, talent, or hobby. Past programs have included robotics, crafts of all type, engineering, woodwork, and cookie decorating. These are just a few of the possibilities. This is a community-wide event that aims to bring everyone together by sharing skills and talents.

Email OradellNJMakersDay@gmail.com by Friday, January 4th, 2019 to learn more and how you can participate.
